(On new engine parts)

Thank you for taking time to pick up and browse through our catalog. This is our 13th full catalog where we try to list every part that we have. We have once again added hundreds of NEW parts and products for this year! However, this is as always a horribly incomplete resource, as we are constantly adding new parts and products to our offering. We routinely add several new products every week. Each section is broken down with a little bit of information that you might find useful in making your selections. If you have questions, feel free to give us a call.

Essex Brass

It is with the greatest pleasure that we make this announcement and continue on making their parts along side of our parts here at Flywheel Supply!
On this page is a couple images from their early #7 Catalog.

1883 MICHIGAN LUBRICATOR CO. established.
1887 THE McRAE & ROBERTS CO. established.
1901 THE G. B. ESSEX BRASS CO. established.
1918 ESSEX BRASS CORPORATION succeeded The
G. B. Essex Brass Co.
1927 GENERAL BRASS COMPANY succeeded The McRae & Roberts Co., Michigan Lubricator Co.
and Standard-Peninsular Brass Co.
1928 ESSEX BRASS CORPORATION purchased from GENERAL BRASS COMPANY all of the "MICHIGAN" line of Lubricating Devices acquired in its merger with MICHIGAN LUBRI-CATOR CO., with the exception of two only styles of stamped brass oil cups. (The "ESSEX"
Line was then and still is, exclusively high-grade red, cast brass.)
1931 GENERAL BRASS CO. went into liquidation, and ESSEX BRASS CORPORATION acquired all of its line of water gauges, gauge cocks, etc.
and them that we have greatly

Users of "Michigan" lubricators and other devices may now obtain repair parts from us, or we can furnish any complete new devices which may be required to complement existing "MICHIGAN" equipment.

Respectfully,
ESSEX BRASS CORPORATION

"BUSINESS" with its Editorial Comment thereon

Those with more imagination, however, will look beyond the oil cup. They will see tooling factories, unceasing activities. They will realize that, without lubricating oil, men today on an anvil, would be producing machinery could be hammered out on an anvil. Without oil, they could not distribute its wares. Operate, operate, operate, operate—they could not be built.

And so the oil cup is dramatic. Tucked away in the whirling machinery of business, quietly performs its work of feeding oil to busy bearings. It is not spectacular but, if it fails, the machine fails; if it is neglected, the resulting damage may be great."

• General Information •

Many of our used parts are refurbished or cleaned up. If you need a part left in its original "work clothes," with the dirty grease and grime, simply call and ask. We more than likely can accommodate your needs. Used parts for various other engines are often on hand and too numerous to mention in a catalog. Most parts are new, unless otherwise specified. If you need a part that you don't see listed, contact us. We more than likely have one, or could make it. We are constantly adding new items and it takes a while for them to get added to the catalog. On some of the used parts that we have, prices are negotiable. Many times we will offer a discount, depending on the part and what else you are ordering at the time. We can't offer the discount on everything, as some parts are hard to come by or cost a lot of time to get them ready to sell. It's the simple economics supply-and-demand thing. If we've got a bunch of them, then we can probably make you a good deal. Other parts are priced on condition. Listed in the catalog is the highest price of the part, and they are discounted from there depending on condition. Many of these items are noted as such, where the item is listed in the catalog. If you have questions, feel free to contact us. Other price negotiations - we realize you work hard for your money and so do we. While we would love to be multimillionaires and just do all this stuff for fun and give the parts away, we can't. We have a family to support and bills to pay, just like you. We try to offer great parts and good quality, at a fair price and reasonable shipping charges to get them to you. We understand many people like to try to negotiate a better deal. On some parts, like originally used parts - as mentioned above - this is entirely possible. However on our new stuff, unless you are prepared to purchase quantities of parts, or substantial dollars amount in one order, then it's not likely that we can discount or change the prices of any parts. Thank you for understanding and cooperating in this matter with us.

• Services Offered •

Our machine shop has some 50+ machines, ranging from CNC to manual machines, chuckers to multi spindle automatics, from die cutting presses to CNC burn tables and even 50 and 100 ton forming presses. If you need a part made, give us a call and talk to us, we may be able to make it. We also do our own die cutting. All of our gaskets we sell are made in house. If there is a gasket you need, send us a good original and we can get a die made and get the gasket cut out for you! We are capable of doing mag, ignitor and carburetor work as well.

• Ordering Instructions •

Online: www.Flywheel-Supply.com 24/7

Phone Call: Our hours are Monday-Friday 8 am to 5 pm CST. This is the easiest way to order as we can clear up any questions you may have at the time of the order. It is also the fastest. We just require a credit card and we will ship the items same day or next business day, so if you are in a hurry, give us a call!

E-Mail: The internet is not as secure as you may think it is, so use of credit card information via email is done at your own risk!

Payment forms accepted: All major credit cards.

• Shipping •

Most orders are shipped the same day they are placed when paid with a major credit card, if placed by noon. Items that are out of stock, back ordered or custom work will take longer, and you'll be given a time frame when the order is placed.

• Shipping Costs •

Most small, new items ship for free, even some large items, like running Maytag engines, cart kits, and various other items, ship for free as well. Original parts and used parts ship at a fair cost to the buyer. For a quote on shipping costs, give us a call and we will figure it out for you.

• Shipping Methods •

Small items go via First Class Mail through the post office. Larger items go either via Priority Mail or UPS Ground. Hazmat items, such as Red Coat gas tank sealer, will ship via UPS Ground. We can also offer expedited and overnight shipping to most locations at a reasonable cost, should you have such a need.

• Terms •

Credit cards are charged when the order is placed, checks and money orders are accepted but cards are preferred and guarantee quicker service. Please note: checks may be held until they clear the bank. Most of our orders ship same day or next business day, if it is going to be longer, we will do our best to inform you at the time the order is placed. All claims of shortages or other issues on orders must be reported within 7 days of order receipt.

• Returns •

Returns are evaluated on a case-by-case basis and must have a return authorization prior to sending the item back. Most items are accepted for returns if in the same condition that they were in when sent to the buyer. A restocking fee may be charged to cover the cost of shipping the item to you, especially on a free shipping item. Return shipping is at the buyer's expense, unless there was an error on our part, and we will reimburse the cost of shipping or send a return shipping label. We strive for 100% shipping accuracy, but we are all human and some error does occur. Please contact us and we will make every reasonable attempt to correct any issue that you may have with your order.

• Return Shipping Instructions •

When shipping items back to us or for us to work on, you need to make sure the box is big enough. The box needs to be 6" larger than the items you are shipping with crushed newspaper 3" all the way around the item. If this is not done, UPS or the post office will likely deny any claim that is made if something gets broke. After you tape the box shut, shake it, if you feel the item move, you do not have enough paper in it and most likely it will get broke. We are not responsible for lost or broken items when you ship things to us. If you get an item that is broken or lost in the mail that we shipped to you, we take full responsibility and will work with you to make it right.

• Guarantee •

We guarantee to ship you parts that are in working order and as we represent them. We will not ship out any broken or welded parts that we wouldn't use ourselves. The original parts are checked and sandblasted before they are shipped out. If you find a problem with a part that we send you, give us a call and we will make it right. We stand behind our parts!

• Pricing •

Our prices are subject to change and/or correction without notice. There are things that are beyond our control and we have to go with it to stay in business. If you need an exact price, please contact us for a quote, or check Flywheel-Supply.com as the prices online are normally up to date. It is hard to change it on paper once it is already on there!

• Magneto Return Policy •

All magnetos carry a 2-year warranty. Warranty work does not include normal maintenance or shipping of the magneto. It must be returned to be inspected and or repaired to be covered under our warranty!

Please note the chart below to help determine the correct pipe size for your needs.

NPT (National Pipe Thread) sizes are based on the nominal inside diameter (ID) of standard Schedule 40 pipe, which can often be confusing. To simplify the process, measure the outside diameter (OD) of the male threaded end and compare it to the chart to identify the corresponding NPT size.

If you have any questions or need assistance selecting the correct size, feel free to give us a call—our team is happy to help.

NPT- American Standard Pipe Thread/Taper Guide

Pipe Size	Actual Outside Diameter of pipe
1/8" NPT	0.405"
1/4" NPT	0.540"
3/8" NPT	0.675"
1/2" NPT	0.840"
3/4" NPT	1.050"
1" NPT	1.315"
1.25" NPT	1.660"
1.5" NPT	1.900"
2" NPT	2.375"

EXAMPLE: To identify the size of a pipe or fitting, you must measure the outside diameter and compared it to a table for the actual size identification. For instance, a 3/8" NPT pipe thread has an outside diameter - OD - of 0.675 inches.

What do lawyers wear to court?

Lawsuits

What's red and bad for your teeth?

A Brick

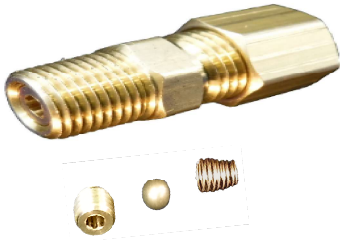

What has more lives than a cat?

A frog, they croak every day

We have a lot of check valve options. Basically every engine needs one, so we carry a variety to suit your needs. These are all quality check valves, made from 360 alloy brass. If there is something you need that you don't see here, contact us and we would be glad to discuss making something for you.

Pipe to compression

These check valves are pipe thread on one end and compression tube on the other. They have a small spring so they can be used horizontal and vertical. Gas flow in either direction by putting the spring on the other side of the check ball. Once you have the flow direction set, I recommend putting a small ding in the end with a punch to prevent the plug from unscrewing and letting the ball and spring fall out.

Size Pipe x Tube	Item #	Price	Shipping

Female Pipe

These are for in the tank, vertical use only. There is no spring.

1/8" NPT	1935	$18.32	Free Shipping
1/4" NPT	1938	$18.32	Free Shipping

Female Pipe to Female pipe

These are in line, vertical use only. There is no spring.

1/8" NPT	1936	$18.32	Free Shipping
1/4" NPT	1937	$19.77	Free Shipping

Pro tip:

When using a check valve with a ball and no spring. Like the ones on the bottom of this page. You need to cut a small slot approximately 1/8" inch into the end of the pipe. When the engine sucks gas up, it can pull the ball right into the end of the tube and prevent fuel from getting by. The slot gives it a place to get around. This won't cause the valve to leak because the seal comes from the bottom of the valve and the ball, not the ball and the pipe.

Hercules style

These are in line, Vertical use only. There is no spring. 1/4" male npt inlet, 1/8" npt female outlet. these work good on lots of engines, if you are taking fuel from a bottom tank fitting, install this in a tee to give a drain option

Fairbanks Ignitor-Fired Engines (3–6 hp)

Fuel Pump Carburetor Models – 1916 to 1919

These classic engines feature a unique fuel pump carburetor system and were produced from 1916 to 1919. Known for their durability and simplicity, they remain popular among restorers and collectors.

Carburetor & Fuel System

- Carburetor (or “mixer”) mounts to the side of the cylinder head.
- Operated by a pushrod beneath the carb, which activates the internal fuel pump.
- Most carburetor components are consistent across the entire 3–6 hp series.

Factory Magneto Options

1. Gear-Driven Magneto

- Mounted behind the hopper.
- Driven directly by gears.

2. Plug Oscillator Magneto

- Used in later models.
- Rocks back and forth instead of spinning.
- Mounted to the ignitor bracket.

Watch for Converted Engines

Note: Magneto components and trip mechanisms differ based on the magneto type. Be sure to identify your setup before ordering part

- Some ignitor-fired engines have been converted to spark plug ignition.
- This is often done using an adapter that covers the original ignitor hole.

Parts Availability

We offer a wide selection of new and original parts for these engines:

- If we don't manufacture a new replacement, we likely have a good original in stock.
- Contact us for help identifying or sourcing the right components.

Fairbanks Eclipse Pumping Engines

Introduced in 1911, the Model 1A Eclipse replaced the earlier Jack of All Trades units. Rated at 1.5 hp, it featured battery and coil ignition and included a belt pulley for running small machinery.

The larger No. 2 Eclipse had dual flywheels and was produced until around 1922.

Fairbanks H & T Engines

Fairbanks H engines are horizontal and came in 2,4, and 6 hp versions. They were available in both stationary and portable styles, with gas or kerosene carburetors. Portable models had a sub-base with an integrated fuel tank.

Fairbanks T engines (shown left) are vertical and were commonly used for power generation. Many were built as "Special Electric" models with heavy flywheels. Available in 2,4,6,9, and 12 hp, production lasted until around 1916.

Many parts are interchangeable between H and T models, so we've listed them together. If you're unsure what you need, give us a call—we're happy to help. We also keep some original parts in stock when available.

Fairbanks Headless (No-Head) Engines

Fairbanks produced these headless engines for just three years, ending in 1918. Not much changed during that time—except, of course, the ignitors.

There are two or three ignitor styles, each with its own variations and spring setups—just enough to keep collectors and parts makers guessing.

Key detail to check:

Does your ignitor use one spring or two? That will determine what parts you need.

WHAT GIVES PEOPLE FEELINGS OF POWER

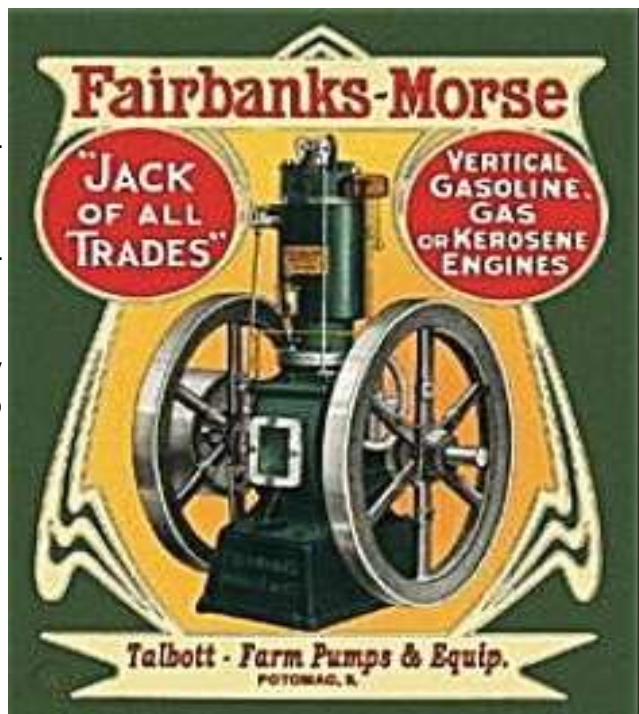

Jack of All Trades (Horizontal Models)

Originally, “Jack of All Trades” referred to both horizontal and vertical engines. Around 1906, the name was used exclusively for skidded and portable horizontal models.

This section covers horizontal engine parts only. For vertical models, see the H & T section.

Yes, the photo shows a vertical engine—but it’s an early Jack of All Trades and too good not to use. Don’t like it? Help us build next year’s catalog!

Fairbanks Magneto Overview

Fairbanks engines utilized two primary magneto ignition systems: a gear-driven rotary magneto and the later “plugoscillator” style. The gear-driven unit mounts behind the hopper and is synchronized via camshaft gears, producing high-voltage current through electromagnetic induction. The plugoscillator, introduced in later models, operates on a rocking motion and is mounted directly to the ignitor bracket. While it doesn't rotate, its internal impulse mechanism still generates sufficient spark energy at low RPM. Each configuration requires specific trip assemblies, brackets, and ignitor timing adjustments to ensure optimal performance and reliability.

Fairbanks Spark Plug Engine Parts

The following sections are organized by engine type. Be sure to verify your exact model before ordering—most are labeled Model Z, but additional details (like style or configuration) are often needed to identify the correct parts.

This section, “Fairbanks Spark plug,” covers most open-crankcase engines with a spark plug in the head, produced from late 1919 through the early 1930s. Included engines:

- 1.5 hp Dishpan Flywheel (Hit & Miss): Battery and coil ignition, no needle valves in the carb.
- 1.5 hp Magneto Style: Two-needle carb with Bosch oscillating mag. Uses either a 2.75” or 5.25” trip arm. May have one of two cam-governor brackets, gears, and camshafts.
- 2 hp: Disc or spoke flywheels, two-needle carb, gear-driven “R” magneto, or “RV” / “J” mag. Features a pot-metal cam-governor bracket.
- 3–6 hp: Bosch mag with either diagonal or straight gear cogs, typically uses a 2.75” trip arm (circa 1919–1924). Later models may use “R”, “RV”, or “J” mags with straight cogs and a pot-metal bracket.
- 5 hp Style B: Most parts interchange with 3 hp except for head gasket and piston rings (bore is 4.75” vs. 4.5”). Rings available for either.
- 7.5 hp Style B: Many parts match the 6 hp version; both have a 5.75” bore. Fairbanks often rebranded 6 hp models as 7.5 hp with minor changes.

Note: Some early engines used pistons with narrower ring grooves. While we can usually determine what you need, the best way to be sure is to remove the piston and measure the grooves before ordering.

Fairbanks ZC

The Fairbanks ZC series was produced from approximately 1940 to 1948. These throttle-governed engines feature a fully enclosed crankcase and are sometimes referred to as the “52” model.

Note: This section covers only the 3 hp ZC model. Fairbanks produced ZC engines in larger horsepower variants, but the parts listed here do not fit those. If you’re unsure about your model, please give us a call—we may have limited parts for the larger versions as well.

This model is frequently confused with others, so if you have a 3 hp enclosed crankcase engine, you’re in the right place.

Many parts are interchangeable with the earlier 1.5 to 2 hp engines, which were rerated to 3 hp when the enclosed crankcase was introduced.

These engines typically use J, R, or RV1 magnetos.

What do you call a belt made of watches?

A waist of time!

Fairbanks Model Z Style D ("Salt Block")

Although officially called the Model Z Style D, collectors often refer to this as the "Salt Block" Fairbanks. These are reliable little engines available in 1.5 hp and 2 hp versions. Externally, they appear nearly identical and share many parts.

1.5 hp bore: 2.25"

2 hp bore: 2.375"

Three types of magnetos were used: R, RV, and J. We keep these in stock along with parts for all three.

Note: The early 1.5 hp used a smaller governor yoke and weights than later models. We stock both styles—just let us know what you need when calling.

If new parts aren't available, we carry a strong selection of original used parts for these engines

Types of Gasket Material

Clad Style Laminate With Vermiculite Based Center - A robust and reliable sealing solution for high-temperature and harsh environments where conventional gasket materials may fail due to heat or oxidation. They offer excellent performance and can be customized to suit specific needs.

Cork Rubber - This blend results in a gasket material that offers the compressibility of cork and the resilience and sealing properties of rubber. It's known for its eco-friendliness, being derived from renewable cork trees, and its versatility in various applications.

Corseal Tang Core - This is a rectangular-style, tanged steel core (often carbon or stainless steel) that is perforated to create a mechanical bond with the facing material. The tangs provide handling strength, resist expansion and contraction, and contribute to load retention. The tang core provides "pushback" against the flange, preventing crushing under high load spots

Foam - Open-cell foams are typically used for shock absorption and vibration dampening, while closed-cell foams are better suited for environmental seals. Foam gaskets are used to fill gaps, prevent leaks, and provide cushioning between surfaces in various products and industries.

Graphite Blend Facing - This facing is mechanically bonded to the tanged core and features a graphite/fiber blend for strength and durability.

K Cork Gasket material- Typically made from cork that is bonded with rubber, offering a combination of compressibility and sealing properties. It's often used in automotive applications for sealing various components like oil pans, fuel pumps, and more.

Karropak or paper gasket - A pliable, chemically treated fibrous sheet used to create custom gaskets for sealing applications in engines and other machinery. It's designed for use with oil, water, and gasoline, and is commonly employed in areas like oil pans, valve covers, and air intakes.

MP-15 - A robust material designed for heavy-duty applications, particularly in compressors and diesel engines. It excels in low flange pressure sealing and bolt torque retention, with a maximum short-duration temperature tolerance of 205°C (400°F)

Rubber-Fiber - Combines the flexibility and sealing properties of rubber with the strength and compressibility of fibers. This blend creates a material that can withstand a range of temperatures, pressures, and chemicals, making it suitable for diverse applications.

Starburst Tang Core - This is the metal core located in the center of the gasket. It features a unique pierced or perforated metal pattern called a "starburst". This pattern provides 3-4 contact points around the tangs, creating a strong mechanical bond with the facing material. The starburst core enhances the gasket's strength, handling durability, and load retention, especially in high-temperature and high-pressure applications

Synthesal- A non-asbestos gasket material designed as a direct substitute for asbestos-containing materials. Synthesal is suitable for sealing a wide range of pressures and internal fluids, with a maximum temperature rating of 180°C (350°F)

Thermo-Tork - Designed for demanding applications, particularly those involving high temperatures and pressures. They are known for their excellent oil and fuel resistance, good tensile strength, and ability to withstand high flange pressures

Vermiculite Facing - Vermiculite is known for its excellent high-temperature resistance and ability to withstand oxidation, even where materials like graphite may fail. In this type of gasket, the vermiculite facing is mechanically bonded to the starburst tang core, often without the use of adhesives. This is particularly beneficial in high-temperature environments where adhesives could degrade.

I tried donating blood today...
Never Again!!!

Too many stupid questions!
Who's blood is it?
Where did I get it from?
Why is it in a bucket!

Where do polar bears keep their money?

In a snowbank

Why do cows wear bells

Becasue their horns don't work

Hercules Gas Engines

The Hercules Gas Engine Company of Evansville, Indiana entered the gas engine market in 1912 following the acquisition of Holm Machine Company, which had earlier ties to Sparta Machine. Before this pivot into stationary engines, the firm operated as the Hercules Buggy Company, manufacturing horse-drawn carriages. The transition reflected a broader industrial trend of the time, as internal combustion began replacing animal and steam power.

Early Hercules engines are easily identified by their flat-top water hoppers, a hallmark design element that set them apart from many other engines of the era. Throughout the years, Hercules engines underwent various design evolutions to improve performance and meet customer demand. Initially, most models were equipped with Webster magnetos, but later units—especially the Model S—featured the more modern Wico EK magnetos, a shift that mirrored technological progress in ignition systems.

Hercules engines were available in both gasoline and kerosene-burning versions, with horsepower ratings ranging from 1.5 to 18 hp, covering a broad range of applications from small farm tasks to industrial uses.

In addition to producing engines under their own name, Hercules was also a prolific OEM (original equipment manufacturer). They built engines for several private-label brands, most notably:

- Economy (sold by Sears, Roebuck & Co.)
- Jaeger (commonly used on cement mixers and construction equipment)

These rebadged engines often shared internal parts with standard Hercules models but had distinctive castings, tags, or paint schemes depending on the brand they were built for.

Model designations across the Hercules lineup include D, E, F, G, H, and S, as well as more obscure variants like the JI/JK and XI/XK series. These lesser-known models often featured significant differences in frame design, governor arrangement, or fuel systems compared to their mainstream counterparts.

---What We Offer---

We support a wide range of Hercules engine owners with:

- Technical advice and model identification help
- New and reproduction parts: including bearings, gaskets, mufflers, fuel tanks, and decals
- Original and rebuilt components (when available): such as magnetos, heads, and carbs
- A strong and frequently updated inventory of used parts

Whether you're restoring a rare JI model or just need gaskets for your 1.5 hp Economy, we're here to help you keep your Hercules engine running like it should.

If you need parts for an IH M engine, you've come to the right place. We make new parts for nearly everything on these engines and carry a huge selection of original and refurbished components. There's hardly anything in the IH M line we can't supply. We're also constantly working to reproduce rarer parts to expand our offering.

The IH M is one of the most popular engines of its era, with production running from 1917 through 1937. All M models are throttle-governed, ranging from 1.5 to 10 hp. They were originally built with either spark plugs or ignitors:

- Ignitor models were made until 1921.
- From 1921 to 1923, they used Bosch magnetos.
- In 1924, IH switched to the Wico EK magneto, which remained through the end of production.

There are two bore sizes:

- 3.625" bore for spark plug engines
- 3.25" bore for ignitor engines

Keep in mind, many early ignitor engines were converted to spark plug setups—sometimes using a factory-made adapter plate over the ignitor port. These engines often have block differences to accommodate the change.

Over the years, three carburetors were used:

- A 2-needle carb on early engines
- Later models featured 1-needle and 3-needle carbs

The 1-needle and 3-needle versions share many internal parts—just more of them in the 3-needle design. We manufacture nearly every component for these carburetors and can help you identify what you need.

Don't overlook the cylinder sleeve O-ring, which differs between ignitor and spark plug engines. Failing to replace it can result in water in your oil—a common but preventable issue.

Whether you have an early or late model, we can help you find virtually any part you need.

If you have questions, give us a call—we're always happy to help!

International Harvester LA & LB Engines

Reliable. Collectible. The perfect gateway engine.

If there's a "gateway drug" into the world of antique gas engine collecting, it's undoubtedly the International Harvester LA and LB engines. While not true hit-and-miss engines—they are throttle-governed—their reliability, simplicity, and accessibility make them a favorite among both new and seasoned collectors.

Models and Variants

The LA series was introduced first, offered in two horsepower ratings: 1.5–2.5 hp and 3–5 hp. It was followed by the LB, which came in the same sizes. While the engines look very similar externally, there are a few functional differences worth noting.

One curious feature common to both models is the pulley setup. Although the engine runs in the standard direction, the pulley is mounted on the camshaft side—opposite the flywheel—which turns at half the crankshaft speed and in reverse rotation. This can be important to understand if you're using the engine to drive equipment.

LA vs. LB: What's the Difference?

The most obvious distinction between the two lies in their lubrication systems.

- LA engines are hand-oiled. The operator is responsible for keeping critical parts lubricated during use.
- LB engines are self-oiling, featuring a splash system that sends oil from the crankcase up to lubricate the valve train.

You can easily identify an LB by removing the valve cover. If you see a nozzle feeding oil to a tray above the rocker arms—or a drain tube extending from the valve cover—it's an LB. If neither is present, you're likely looking at an LA.

Parts Compatibility

The good news: most parts between the LA and LB are interchangeable. While a few exceptions exist, the vast majority of internal and external components can be swapped without issue. If you're unsure, give us a call—we're happy to help you sort it out.

Magnetos and Ignition

Three types of magnetos were used during production:

- Wico H1
- Wico AH
- Type H

If you're choosing an engine (or need parts), aim for one equipped with the Wico H1 or AH models, as parts availability is significantly better. The Type H magnetos are harder to support due to limited parts supply.

Documentation and Manuals

While both models have dedicated manuals, the LB manual is more comprehensive and packed with valuable diagrams and specifications. We recommend getting both if you're serious about working on these engines—they're excellent references no matter which model you own.

Production Timeline

- LA Series: Introduced in 1934
- LB Series: Began replacing the LA around 1941
- Final Production: Concluded in 1948

This means nearly 15 years of production and parts evolution, so it's always wise to identify your engine's model and year when ordering components.

International Harvester “Model M” Engines

If you're working on an International Harvester (IH) Model M engine, you've come to the right place. We offer new, reproduction, refurbished, and original parts for just about every component on these engines. Whether you're doing a full restoration or just chasing down a hard-to-find gasket or fitting, we've got you covered.

Our shop carries a massive inventory of original and rebuilt parts sourced from donor engines, and we're constantly working on developing more of the rare and obsolete components to keep these engines alive for generations to come. There's very little in the IH M lineup that we can't supply.

A True Workhorse of Its Time

The IH Model M is one of the most iconic and widely used engines of the early 20th century, with production running from 1917 through 1937. Known for their durability and simplicity, these engines were commonly used for powering farm equipment, water pumps, generators, and more.

All M models are throttle-governed, ranging from 1.5 to 10 horsepower, and were available in two main ignition types:

- Ignitor-equipped engines (produced until 1921)
- Spark plug engines, which followed in later years

The ignition evolution is important for parts compatibility:

- 1917–1921: Ignitor and battery/coil ignition
- 1921–1923: Transition to Bosch magnetos
- 1924–1937: Standardized on the Wico EK magneto, which remained until the end of production

We carry parts for all three ignition setups, including new and used ignitors, magnetos, brackets, and related hardware.

Bore Sizes and Conversion Notes

There are two primary bore sizes for the M engines:

- 3-5/8" bore — found in spark plug engines
- 3-1/4" bore — found in ignitor engines

Important note: Many early ignitor engines were converted to spark plug ignition, often using a factory adapter plate or a custom cover over the ignitor port. These engines may look like later models, but the block and internal components may differ. Always inspect your engine carefully—or reach out to us if you're not sure. We're happy to help you identify exactly what you've got.

Carburetor Variants

Three different carburetors were used across the IH M engine's production run:

- 2-needle (early engines)
- 1-needle and 3-needle (later engines)

The 1-needle and 3-needle carburetors share many internal parts, although the 3-needle variant simply uses more of them. We manufacture nearly all parts for each style, and we can help identify which version you need if you're unsure.

Don't Forget the Cylinder Sleeve O-Ring

One commonly overlooked component is the cylinder sleeve O-ring, which differs between ignitor and spark plug engines. Skipping this small part during a rebuild often results in water contamination in the oil—a headache you can easily avoid. We stock both types and can help you identify the correct one.

We're Here to Help

Whether you have an early ignitor model or a late spark plug version, we can supply virtually any part you need for your IH M engine. From gaskets, valves, and cams to mags, carbs, and cylinder heads, we do it all—and if we don't have it in stock, there's a good chance we're working on making it.

Have questions or need help identifying your engine? Give us a call. We're passionate about these engines and would be glad to help you sort it out.

Instructional images for JD Engines

To be timed correctly all 4 marked teeth must line up at the same time.

The timing marks should all line up when the R in SPARK is aligned with the face of a square as pictured.

The skids for JD engine measure between 2.375" - 2.625" width and 3.25" - 3.5" tall. They were not that fussy originally, the wood was rough cut and run through a planer, a 1/16 of an inch was close enough and they were painted green like the engine.

To mount the JD trucks to your engines when you have it on skids:

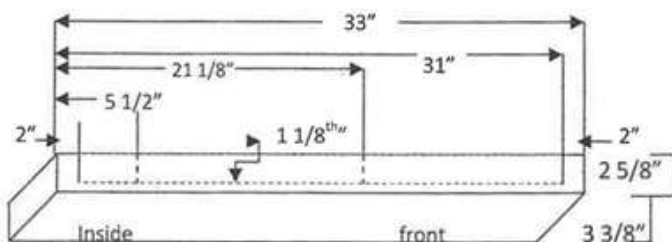

- Make all the measurements from the back of each skid (flywheel end) when you are mounting your engine to the skid – Use the diagram!
- Measure in from each end: 2"
- Center the front and rear bolster on your skid
- Drill the holes 7/16"
- Use 3/8" x 5" carriage bolts to secure

It's a lot easier to lay out the holes using the engine subbase, being mindful of the clearance for the gas tank between the skids and the bolts spacing on the front and rear bolster for the trucks.

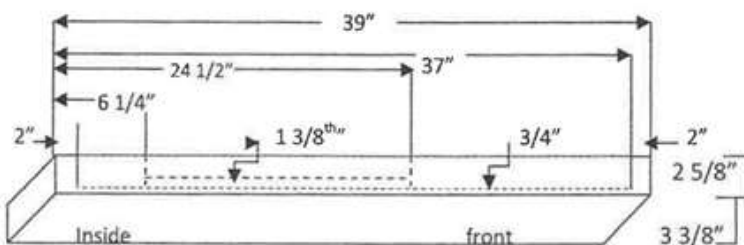

When using JD cart on the 3 hp engines, some people prefer to reinforce the axles with 4 solid shafts, these are available in the catalog – check for current pricing

When using the cast iron Waterloo Boy carts for the 3 hp JD engine order the wide front bolster.

Skid for 1 1/4 HP engine

Skid for 3 HP engine

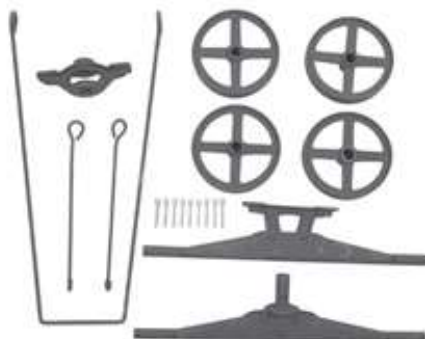

For both pictures above: Left side shown 7/16" hole, 3/8 x 5" bolts, 5/16x2" lag screws. Bolster hole spacing for JD cart is 7"

MAYTAG - DEFINING THE MODELS

Maytag made 5 models or types of engines. The first was the upright, which resembles the Elgin motors, then the Fruit Jar, then the Model 82, the 92, and, last, the 72. They were then eventually replaced by the Briggs WMB series of gas engines. Collectors nowadays refer to Maytag by the model number, 92, 72, 82, etc. However, Maytag only referred to them as a Maytag multi-motor. The numbers given to them by collectors of nowadays are simply the model numbers of the washing machines the engines came off of. There is some debate as to the exact accuracy of that, but, that is the general idea of how it came to be. The single-cylinder Maytag engine with the kick pedal and an aluminum carburetor is known as the Model 92 engine. The Model 82 Maytag engine has a cylinder head turned sideways where the exhaust comes out on the side opposite the sparkplug, and the sparkplug comes out on the same face as the flywheel. The carburetor is made of brass and is known as a Model E carburetor, the same as many of the upright Maytag engines used. The Model 72 is the twin-cylinder Maytag engine. Two cylinders opposing, simultaneously firing. Two main variations with the twin are Eiseman ignition and Wico ignition. Eiseman is much more common and Wico is a little bit more rare. In the Eiseman ignition the flywheel will have about 1/8 inch rim on the very outside of the flywheel, and in Wico the rim will be more like 1/4 inch or 5/16 inch thick. Serial numbers for Maytag engines are stamped across one of the fins on the outside rim of the flywheel, and can be looked up in the list at the end of this book or on our website.

Maytag Engine Decal Placement

*One black & gold decal per engine manufactured before 1933

- On all 1/2 hp Upright 1915-1922 the decal was placed on the large side of fuel tank
- All 82 engines 1923-1927 the decal was on side of fuel tank just above drain plug
- All 92 engines prior to 1933 the decal was on top of the crankcase with the top of decal towards flywheel

*Model 92 manufactured in 1933 and later used 2 decals

- Maytag multi-motor decal placed on top of crankcase with top of decal towards flywheel
- Short shallow and short deep tank had notice decal on rear of tank
- Long frame tank had the notice decal on the left side just below the fuel filler tank

*Twin cylinder with aluminum tank with no feet

- Multi-motor decal at rear of tank, notice decal on the front side just below exhaust outlet

*Twin cylinder cast iron tank with bolt holes in bottom & cast iron with feet

- Multi-motor decal on rear of tank and notice decal on the left side just below the fuel filler cap

*Twin cylinder long frame only had 1 decal

- Round caution decal placed on lower face of starter gear shield

*Last engine used on the washing machine was a WM Biggs & Stra on engine with a mounting bracket fastened to the head bolts and a belt shield mounted on the wind cover

- Engine had a regular Briggs & Stra on decal on wind cover and a black & gold round Maytag caution decal on the belt shield

Please note: there is some debate and argument amongst collectors to rather this is the exact correct decals and placement. It's the best info we have and given to fellow collectors with the best intentions of helping them with their project. If you find other info about other placements please don't tar and feather us. There's an equal number of opinions on this subject as there are collectors!

MAYTAG OIL MIX?

All Maytag engines are two cycle engines. They use 16:1 fuel to oil mix. That is 8 oz of oil per gallon of gas. We sell a premium oil for using in these early two cycle engines. Otherwise a good grade two cycle oil or a 30 weight non-detergent motor oil will also do. Mix the gas prior to filling. The gas goes in the base of the engine on every model. Look for a small pipe plug on all model except the twin. They have a larger aluminum gas cap toward the rear of the engine

MY ENGINE WON'T START!

Help me, my engine won't start! That is a VERY common question we get on the phone. If your working on a Maytag the first thing we ALWAYS check is your coil, more on that in another post. But if you have checked your coil and you have good spark then I bet your engine is flooded. Do you have gas leaking anywhere or fuel coming out the exhaust port? Yes? Then it is flooded. Turn the needle valve OFF on the carb if its a model 92 or open the air cap several turns if you have a 72 and kick it about 10 times to clear the fuel. Remove and dry the spark plug(s). Then try to start it again with the fuel still off. Many engines will now start or fire a few times on some still remaining fuel. If it does, slowly open the needle (92) or start to close the air cap (72) and it should continue to run. Otherwise if it doesn't fire do the same thing. Open the adjust it a little then try a couple of kicks. Then adjust a little more, so one and so forth till it starts. If you have any questions feel free to contact us and someone will be glad to help you!

MAYTAG 92 CARB SETTINGS

Everyone asks us how the carb needle should be set on a single cylinder model 92 engine. The needle valve is a fuel adjustment, NOT a choke. Closed should shut the fuel off and kill the engine and open should be one half turn open from closed. To set it, remove the small nut that holds the brass handle/pointer on the end. Turn the needle valve in gently till it bottoms out. Then reinstall the lever with it pointing to the closed position. Now you can turn it to the open position as marked on the casting below and your engine should run. Some engines like to run with the needle open half way or 3/4. Each engine will vary a little. Just fine tune it to

HOW TO CHECK A COIL MODEL 92

You will need an Ohm meter to check the coil. You will need to check from plug wire to plug wire with an Ohm meter and you should get approx. 8600 Ohms on an original coil or approx. 9600 Ohms on our new reproduction coils. If open or no reading, coil is bad. If you need further information there is a video on our website to walk you through the testing process.

*Remember when collecting engines and old iron,
It isn't hording if your junk is cool!*

The twin engine, known as a model 72 is rated for approximately 5/8 hp. Production was from 1937-1952.

A few tips and commonly asked questions:

- No gasket is used between the block and the tank cover plate
- If your pedal gear appears to be “worn” and not connecting to crack gear, check for a gasket as mentioned above
- Do not turn a twin engine over without grounding plug wires, burning out a coil will result, also do not try to run it on one cylinder by removing a wire, same result will occur.
- The governor is in the crankshaft, access it through the 1/4” NPT pipe plug in the top of the block, the further the cap with the small clip inside it is backed out the faster the engine will run. The other cap does nothing.
- Fuel dripping out of the exhaust is a good indication of a flooded engine, may times the plugs will never look wet
- A good coil should OHM out at about 8,600 ohms, and our new coils over 10,000 ohms. Check this by using a volt meter and reading plug wire to plug wire. An “open” reading may still make a spark but likely wont run an engine.

Two fish are in a tank.

One turns to the other and says, "Any idea how to drive this thing?"

Why are pirates called pirates?

They just ARRRRR!

The single cylinder engine, known as a model 92 is rated for approximately 3/4 horse power. Production was from 1927-1937. Don't confuse a 92 for an 82. The 92 has a kick pedal mounted to the engine. The 92 pedal assembly was part of the washing machine.

A few tips and commonly asked questions:

- No gasket is used between the block and the tank cover plate.
- If your pedal gear appears to be "worn" and not connecting to crack gear, check for a gasket as mentioned above.
- Fuel dripping out of the exhaust is a good indication of a flooded engine, may times the plugs will never look wet
- A good coil should OHM out at about 6,800 ohms. Check this by using a volt meter and reading plug wire to ground and plug wire to condenser wire with the points and condenser disconnected. An "open" reading may still make a spark but likely wont run an engine.
- Points gap is 0.20" and plug gap we recommend is 0.20" as well.

I want a job cleaning mirrors

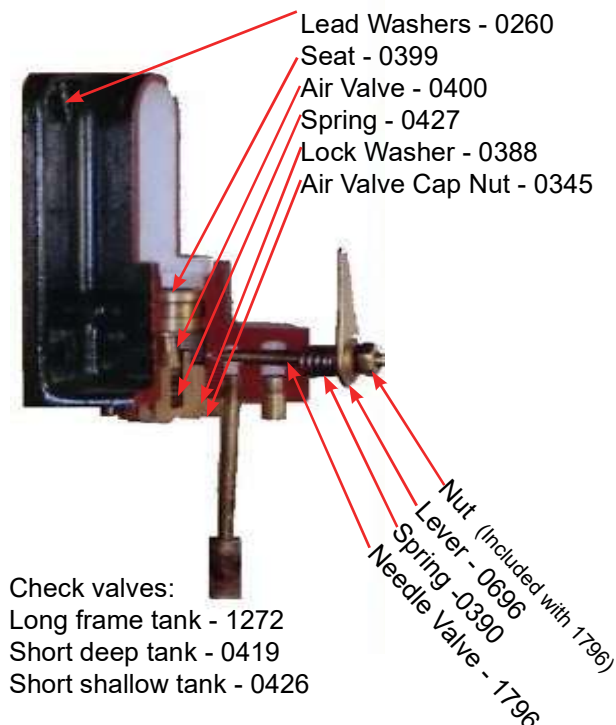

It's something I can really see myself doing

Why do you never see elephants hiding in trees?

Because they're so good at it!

Did you hear about the claustrophobic astronaut?

Poor guy really needed some space

Carburetor basics for model 92 engines. There are three things to test, perform, or follow these instructions below. To test your carb's air valve for functionality, remove from engine, unscrew fuel tube and needle valve from carb. Take the carb body in your right hand and smack sharply the bottom against the palm of your left hand while listening for a distinct metal clicking sound. If you hear the click and the air valve is moving as it should. If no sound is heard, then further disassembly of the large brass nut and the air valve will be required to inspect and/or repair or replace. To inspect your carb's fuel jet, shine a flashlight in the back of the carb, the small round hole that faces the engine block and is bisected by the brass tube. With light shining in that hole, look in the front where you previously removed the needle valve from and you should see a distinct pinpoint of light. If no light is seen, poke a small wire in to remove obstruction and repeat test. It also would no hurt to blow it out with compressed air at this point. To inspect your check valve that you previously removed from the carb. Blow through the tube towards the check valve with your mouth and you should encounter resistance. Then blow from the check valve towards the fuel tube and you should have free air flow. If not, then further disassembly of the check valve will be required to inspect and/or repair or replace.

The above part numbers can be ordered separately or in a kit. We offer several kits with various components that can save you money.

Our oilers are made in our shop! We welcome wholesale orders to other dealers and distributors. These oilers have been made by Essex Brass for over 100 years. We bought them out in 2018 and continue to produce the same oilers and lubricators today.

If you are using the oiler for a engine cylinder, you want an oiler with a check valve.

If your using the oiler it lubricate a bearing or other non compression application you do not need a check valve in your oiler.

What do you call a boomerang that doesn't come back?

A stick!

All the pet cocks shown on these pages are made by Flywheel Supply, in our plant in Iowa! These were previously made by Essex Brass in Warren, MI for over 100 years. We bought them out in 2018 and you can read more about that in the front of the catalog. To order simply order by number.

All pet cocks ship free in the USA. Volume and wholesale orders welcomed and encouraged. Remember pipe size is not measured by actual OD size. Please refer to pipe size chart in the Brass Fittings section of our book. Rated for 100psi of air pressure at moderate temperature. Flare connections are SAE 45 deg. Compression connections are ball sleeve type. Machine finish is standard on all air cocks. Polished or plated is available at an extra cost.

We normally have a good selection of original Stover parts on hand. We are also always willing to make new parts for things people need. If you need something you don't see listed please get in touch and we will see what we can do for you!

Stover was founded in 1862 by a man by the name of DC Stover. He was an incredible inventor. His company made a number of things from the obvious engines as well as bikes, windmills, barbed wire, stoves. Even cast iron skillets! I have personally seen quite a number of odd Stover collectables get sold over the years. They produced engines and other products up until February 20th, 1942, having built over 277,000 engines! Whatever you might need for a Stover, get in touch with us!

Flywheel Supply

Flywheel-Supply is a family-run and operated business located about 15 miles northwest of Le Mars, Iowa, in the small town of Craig, Iowa. Started by Zach and Ashley Northway, they now operate the business full-time with the help of several employees and their four children, Trinity, Alexa, Noah and Nolan. Almost all of the parts you see offered in the catalog are manufactured by us in-house. We have both manual and CNC machining capabilities, with a total of about 60 machines, should you require any custom part or custom work, we'll gladly take a look at whatever you need. More about our machining and shop capabilities can be found on our website, Flywheel-Supply.com

John 14:6

Jesus answered, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me." All we have an ever hope to have is because of Jesus. It's by Him that all things are possible, including allowing us to bring you these parts! Thank you Jesus!

We now manufacturer new Lunkenheimer carburetors!

Giving Back & Supporting the Hobby

At Flywheel Supply we believe getting the next generation involved in collecting engines and antique iron is the way forward in the hobby. This is critical to teaching kids about history and learning mechanical skills that can be used throughout their entire lives.

That is why we have launched our Giving Back program. If you are part of a 4H club, FFA, or other similar groups or functions, visit our website Flywheel-Supply.com and check out the Giving Back page for more details. Your group or project can apply for and receive free or low cost parts to be used in restoration projects done by our youth. Lots more information located on the website.
